OPPORTUNITIES ABOUND AT MT. BETHEL CHRISTIAN ACADEMY

With the addition of a second East Cobb campus in 2014, Mt. Bethel Christian Academy became the first and only faith-based, independent school in East Cobb serving all grade levels, JK-12th. The new campus, now in its third year of operation, sits on the beautiful 32-acre site of the former Marcus Jewish Community Center near the intersection of Post Oak Tritt Road and Holly Springs Road. For the first time in the school's nearly twenty year history, all students, regardless of grade level, can have access to all that Mt. Bethel provides and at the top of that list is - opportunity.

Academic Opportunity - College-preparatory by design, Mt. Bethel's curriculum is designed to challenge students at every grade level culminating with honors and AP courses offered in all core subjects. A dual track STEM program offers students the opportunity to gain concentrated instruction in the biomedical or engineering fields. At every grade level, students are guided through rigorous curriculum by expert teachers who are known not only for their expertise and experience, but also more importantly for their desire to form deep, impactful relationships with students.

Extracurricular Opportunity - Opportunities to explore learning outside the core curriculum are also plentiful and serve to enrich the Mt. Bethel Christian Academy experience. Students interested in learning to play a musical instrument may choose to participate in band. Those interested in voice or drama can choose to participate in chorus. Both music programs offer several performance opportunities throughout the year. Young artists are guided by an expert team of visual art teachers who nurture and cultivate artistic expression, culminating in AP Studio Art for the most advanced students.

Athletic Opportunity - The connection between physical activity and learning is clear and the Mt. Bethel Christian experience is designed to challenge a student's body as well as their mind. Students attend physical education classes several times per week and recess is provided each day for lower school students. Mt. Bethel students' physical education opportunities include activities not found in any other East Cobb school including rock wall climbing, pitball, and fishing in one of two private, stocked lakes. Beginning in middle school, students can choose to participate in the school's championship athletic program featuring 29 teams across eleven different sports.

Important as academic, athletic, and artistic opportunities are, Mt. Bethel Christian's most distinctive opportunity is the opportunity to be known. There is an unmistakable intimacy that defines the Mt. Bethel experience. Small class sizes, low student-to-teacher ratios and a Christ-centered culture all contribute to the school's ability to truly know each child. A student's strengths, challenges, successes and occasional setbacks play out in the context of a nurturing classroom and a loving teacher who has the time and desire to know him well. Mt. Bethel's classes are tailor-made for relationships, and there is no better environment to prepare a child to pursue a lifetime of learning built on a foundation of faith. It is unmatched opportunity that allows Mt. Bethel to make good on the promise made in its mission - to provide a Christ-centered education, which encourages and develops academic excellence, spiritual growth, and a lifelong desire for learning.

EAST COBBER

While the public schools in East Cobb County do a good job of providing a quality education, many East Cobb parents seek out "a better fit" for their junior scholars. Finding a quality private school can be a daunting task. As a first step, take a look at our eleventh annual list of private schools. Many of these schools will be hosting Open Houses this month, and quite a few have registration deadlines in January or February. So if you are considering private education, now is the time to investigate your options.

CHOOSING A PRIVATE SCHOOL

The reasons cited over and over again by families who send their children to private schools include individual attention, small classes, teacher excellence, and high academic standards.

Your decision to consider an independent/private school is just the beginning. While private schools set high standards and emphasize values, they are wonderfully distinct from each other. There are day and boarding schools; coeducational, girls', and boys' schools. Enrollment varies from a few dozen to a few thousand students. Some independent schools are progressive, others more traditional in structure. Private schools also serve a varying range of students in terms of abilities and interests. Some schools offer special programs such as intensified instruction in the fine and performing arts, experiential learning projects, or travel abroad seminars. Many schools excel at rigorous intellectual preparation; others are dedicated to average learners; and some specialize in teaching bright students with learning disabilities. Since each of these schools has something unique to offer, ideally you are trying to match a student's needs with the appropriate school. Write or call the admissions office for published information about a school's philosophy and programs, and then make an appointment to visit.

If you haven't done so already, contact each potential school for information dealing with philosophy, curriculum, extracurricular offerings, admission process, and financing options. Compare each school's literature with the items on your list; this should give you a preliminary sense of which schools are a good match. Take into account what type of environment would be best for your child and consider his or her individual strengths as you examine each school's program.

The best time to apply is in the fall preceding the academic year of the student's admission; however, applications are considered throughout the school year. Most schools will require a personal interview, admissions testing, and information from your child's current school. Ask the individual school for the details of its application procedures and testing dates.

In short, choosing the right school for your child is likely the most important single decision you might make in terms of setting the proper path and direction for life. A little preparation and research on the part of parents will go miles toward making the ultimate destination clear at the exit ramp. 📍
